DOKUMENTINDHOLD

Ernest Mancoba skriver til Inger Ferlov. Han glæder sig over at hun er i bedring efter en alvorlig sygdom. Han mindes sidst de sås og udtrykker varme og glæde ved erindringen om den varme modtagelse som både han og Wonga blev mødt med fra familien. Han nævner en uidentificeret Peter og Tove i brevet.

My very dear Inger,

What a marvelous surprise and gladness it was for Wonga and me to receive your beautiful letter with the encouraging news that after the serious illness and great suffering you have had to undergo with so much courage you are now beginning to regain forces and better health from day to day.

Both Wonga and I miss you very much and on each occasion we have been in your presence we have carried with us much courage and hope to face up to a difficult world which is getting more and more difficult and complicated.

We look forward to seeing all again on our next visit to Denmark soon.

It was a wonderful and unforgettable day we spent together in the country side at Tove's Louise's - I was deeply impressed and grateful for the generous reception the whole family offered us. Do give them our heartfelt greetings and remembrances.

Peter took excellent pictures of that day and you look as I remember you - Thanks. Both Peter and yourself have made a great and lasting contribution, by your having been in this world, towards the survival of our humanity.

Now dear Inger, dear Tove, dear Peter we send you our love our deep felt greetings and Best Wishes also to all those nearest you

Wonga og Ernest
